President Harding's Memorial Day Message to American Legion

Americans have never been much given to the establishment of holidays and yet today, perhaps our national life has been so short and entirely within so many of our minds a period of the world's history that we have been little moved by the sentiments that such occasions inspire. Yet, I think, no nation has ever established a national day of remembrance that represented a more lofty and ennobling sentiment than does our national Memorial Day. To its observance we have brought the full measure of sincere reverence and gratitude that a great people is ever to entertain for those who have made the sacrifice in its behalf.

Memorial day marks our recognition of those who, from our national beginnings, have deserved the honor that the nation could give of gratitude and appreciation. It reminds us that in every generation from the founding of the Republic our valiant sons have won the highest tribute that nation, fortified, defended, preserved and given them. Whenever the demand has come, and wherever it may have called the sons of our proud land, it has always been answered. Though we have never been a militant or war-loving people there has been no time when Americans did not rise to the full measure of the requirement of which national honor and national safety imposed upon them. When national duty was the cause, the response was always instant and decisive. When civilization summoned and our sons were called to other wars and sides and soils, we saw the same principles, the same zeal, the same devotion.

On this Memorial Day of 1921, we stand, I trust, very close to peace achieved, to safety insured. May it be our common aim and purpose that in the coming years, our nation's aim and policy shall be directed to make certain that there shall be no need for further sacrifices, that the guarantee of stability, the permanence and the inspiring character of these institutions of liberty in which our nation has been dedicated.

THE SOISSON.

"LOVE, HONOR AND BEHAVE"—A Mack Sennett comedy is the feature attraction today. In "Married Life" it was jealousy on the part of the husband who wrongly suspected his wife. In "Love, Honor and Behave" it is jealousy on the part of the wife who wrongly suspects her husband. They are but bride and groom and this is their first quarrel. The bride, Marie Prevost, appeals to "Judge" Murray, whom she interrupts while he is seated in his robes at court. The suspected bridegroom is George O'Hara and his part of the Sennett production is portrayed in high distinction, it being legitimately done, the roles being played straight and the whole affair carried off with dramatic power and conviction. Persuaded of the innocence of the bridegroom, "Judge" Murray proceeds to relate to the unhappy pair an experience of his own in order to prove that circumstantial evidence, such as that possessed by the bride, is dangerous testimony. Invalid, scandalous and false. The picture here takes up Murray's narrative and immediately the beholder is plunged in a sea of hilarious humor with every once in a while a cut-back to the judge's chambers showing him continuing his story to the rapidly melting bride.

THE SOISSON.

"PASSION"—An amazing picture, with Pola Negri as the star, will be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. "Passion" is a stirring, spectacular feature conceived about the life of the famous French courtesan of Louis XV's time, Madame Du Barry. From the spectacular point of view the picture is astonishing. Its climax scenes showing the outbreak of the French revolution, the storming of the Bastille and related scenes bring into play thousands of people in whom are imbued all the conditions of a raging mob. The scenes reach the ultimate in realism. Their effect on the emotions is little short of sweeping. They are full of color, action, excitement and thrill. Chief interest, however, must center on the figure of Du Barry herself, this for the reason that the part is so superbly played by Pola Negri, one of the best known actresses on the continent. She is versatility itself, at times being the sedulous courtesan, then flashing into a being of childish simplicity. Her sense of dramatic values is acute, her physical charms are at times boldly displayed and often suggested but she never becomes vulgar because of the rarity of her art. The picture possesses a tremendous, intense interest because of its superb acting—every part in it being played with the utmost skill and effect—its historical side, and its spectacular element.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"AN UNWILLING HERO"—Featuring Will Rogers is the leading attraction today. Mr. Rogers' remarkable talent of never seeming to act, a Boston lady, who had never before frequented a motion picture theatre were a criticism of Will Rogers to a well known Eastern paper. Among other things, she said: "I have not made up my mind as to whether Mr. Rogers is a great actor or just a fine, big human being." It is the opinion of this reviewer that Will Rogers is a mixture of both. In "An Unwilling Hero," which presents Will Rogers as a whistling tramp who becomes a hero against his will, the Goldwyn star is given a "movie" hero. He is always a lovable human being, with much good in his make-up, and a tantalizing habit of availing work. He whistles his way through life, a beloved vagabond who wins the sympathy of some well-meaning people who try to make a worker of him. How the tramp succeeds in avoiding all their good intentions makes the delightful story that O. Henry wrote under the title of "Whistling Dick's Christmas Stocking," and Will Rogers interprets as "An Unwilling Hero." Molly Malone and John Bowers are the other leading characters in an excellent cast. Monday and Tuesday Alice Jones will be seen in "Her Lord and Master."

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE CRADLE OF COURAGE"—A Paramount picture is the feature attraction today and will also be shown tomorrow. Can you fancy William S. Hart, Western hero and frontier bad man, in a score of pictures, as a policeman? Well, he is just that in his latest production. The old saying that "it takes a thief to catch a thief" is exemplified in this photoplay in a sense, but this is in no wise the theme of the story. "Sinner" Kelly, portrayed by Mr. Hart, has been a water-cracker who is reformed in the crucible of war at the fighting front and who becomes a policeman in furtherance of his plan to live straight. Of course, there is a pretty girl who inspires this lofty sentiment in Kelly and strengthens his purpose to relinquish his criminal career. When Kelly, in his policeman's uniform, there is action aplenty. He visits summary punishment upon the leader of the crook band with which he was associated and when the latter treacherously slays Kelly's brother, he pays the penalty with his life at Kelly's hands.

Monday and Tuesday Dorothy Dalton, the beautiful screen star, will be featured in "Half an Hour," the amazing adventure of a heart-hungry wife who fled from her home to find love. At 7:30 she left her husband and farewell note and slipped away. At 8 o'clock she returned another woman, in that crashing half hour come and see what happened.

FOUR DOCTORS GAVE HER UP

Through a Neighbor's Advice This Woman Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kenosha, Wis.—"I suffered with a female trouble and at last was in bed for six weeks with what the doctors called inflammation of the bowels. Four of them said I could not live. A neighbor told me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the start. When the doctor came I told him what I had taken and he said, 'Throw my medicine away and keep on with the Pinkham medicine.' I did and I am cured now. If more women would take your medicine they would not suffer so. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to lots of people and they have been satisfied."—Mrs. MARY RHAPSTOCK, 2704 Wisconsin St., Kenosha, Wisconsin.

When a woman is beset with such symptoms as irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, a displacement, backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness or the "blues," she should treat the cause of such conditions by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the standard remedy for women's ills.

Husband and Wife Both Sick.
Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Comer, Shenandoah, Va., were both ill. He writes: "Rheumatism and bladder trouble was our trouble. My wife had rheumatism in her arms so she could not use them. She had no trouble since taking Foley Kidney Pills. I don't have to get up at night so much since taking Foley Kidney Pills, nor have I a weak back." Backache, sore, swollen or stiff muscles or joints, tired languid feeling—yield quickly to Foley Kidney Pills. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN—600 South Pittsburg street, Francis J. Scott, pastor. Sunday school, 9:45; preaching, 11 and 7:30; Wednesday evening service, 7:45. The morning sermon is concerning "The Shepherd." A man was put out of the church. It is easy to make a church member. Jesus took this man's part. I would like to ask who has the key to the fold of God? Is a church of men in control of the key? The Christian needs guiding, but he must remember that he is a crusader and he is an explorer. If there is money for you, there is mercy for the city of Connelville in which you live. When you forget the city in which you live, you have forgotten the very fact upon which Christ would base His gospel of love which reaches you. Would you not like to hear the whole sermon? In the evening the message is on "The Good Soldier." Paul frequently referred to the trials and triumphs of a military life. He was exempt from military service by reason of physical defects but the spirit of a soldier was in him.

Did You See Our White Roses?

They are in our Market Window surrounded by cans of pineapple, peaches, pears, apricots, peas, corn, salmon, coffee, etc., all of the "White Rose" brand, and the flowers are truly typical of the rare delicacy and flavor of the new line we have just added to our grocery stocks.

Try a few cans in your next order. You will come again.

A Few Suggestions for a Tempting Al Fresco Menu SANDWICHES FOR EPICURES—

—a leaf of lettuce and a few drops of some spicy sauce will make all the difference in the world in the sandwiches made from such ordinary things as cheese and pineapple, potted ham, deviled tongue, vienna sausage or any of the other luncheon meats from the Market. Or why not try lettuce, mayonnaise and nutmeats; lettuce, thinly sliced onions and sardines; mayonnaise, tomato and cucumber, or just mayonnaise and chopped green peppers?

CRISP SALADS ARE ALWAYS GOOD

—of course, potato, pickled eggs and beets and coldslaw (did you ever add chopped peanuts?)—are always on the menu, but a tomato stuffed with Purdy Cross chicken and topped with Premier Dressing will bring a cheer! Salmon, tuna fish and the various fruit salads are easily prepared in the picnic grounds.

Here, too, are all kinds of fresh and luncheon meats; ham and bacon for campfire feasts and
